Modern Slavery Statement

September 2021

INTRODUCTION

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the UK Modern Slavery Act 2015 (the “Act”) and sets out the steps GBG has taken to ensure that slavery, human trafficking and child labour is not taking place in our supply chains or in any part of our business.

We recognise that all businesses have a key role to play in preventing all types of modern slavery in their own business and supply chains through the promotion of ethical business practices and policies. We are continually considering ways of maximising positive societal contributions of both our own business and that of the companies we work with. We believe it is our ability to establish trust between businesses and their customers that places us at the heart of the global digital economy. Our customers need innovative digital solutions to grow, reduce online fraud and meet increasingly stringent compliance regulations. GBG offers practical solutions and tools to enable organisations to engender trust with their customers, help them to mitigate ethical risk within their own business and keep principled practices at the heart of their business models.

At GBG, we are committed to improving our practices to ensure that slavery and human trafficking are not taking place in any part of our business or supply chain. We believe the risk of modern slavery in our supply chain is low, however, we are not complacent and will continue to focus on improving our procedures and policies to ensure that there is no modern slavery in GBG’s supply chain. We expect the same commitment from our suppliers, contractors and business partners.

Our solution is designed to help prevent fraud and avoid regulatory fines, our powerful identity verification solutions can be configured to carry out a wide range of functions, including Know Your Customer (KYC) Checks, Anti Money Laundering (AML) Checks, fraud protection and age verification checks.

Fraud Detection & Compliance – fraud prevention solutions not only check new customer details in real time as they register but monitor and detect application and transaction fraud on an ongoing basis. Our advanced capabilities, data intelligence and comprehensive ecosystem of best-in-class risk managers enables businesses to stay vigilant amid the acceleration of digital adoption and financial crime. Our end-to-end fraud and compliance solutions provide multi-layered protection against synthetic identity fraud, first-party fraud detection, account takeovers, social engineering, money mule crimes, money laundering, terrorist financing, and more.

OUR SUPPLY CHAINS

Although slavery is illegal in every country in the modern world it unfortunately still exists and is a brutal form of organised crime whereby people are forced to work against their will under the threat of some form of punishment or detriment. Most of these people are in the supply chains of legitimate industries. We spend £100M+ globally per annum with our key suppliers and partners.

As part of our due diligence processes into slavery and human trafficking our supply chain approval process incorporates a review of the controls undertaken by the supplier or partner. Imported goods from sources outside the UK and EU are potentially more at risk for slavery/human trafficking issues. The level of management control required for these sources will be continually monitored. The company will not support or deal with any business knowingly involved in slavery or human trafficking and the company will continue to protect whistleblowers.

GBG minimum expectations of its supply chain:

- No forced, bonded or involuntary prison labour or child labour;
- Workers have rights to join or form trade unions and rights for free association and bargaining;
- Working conditions are clean, safe and hygienic;
- Working hours comply with national laws and benchmark industry standards;
- Physical abuse or discipline, the threat of physical abuse, sexual or other harassment and verbal abuse or other forms of intimidation are prohibited.

As we develop our thinking around modern slavery, we will continue to update our procurement and governance processes to ensure compliance to both legal requirements and industry best practice. This includes the ongoing development and improvement of our formal supply chain due diligence process.

OUR POLICIES ON SLAVERY AND HUMAN TRAFFICKING

The Board takes ultimate responsibility for ensuring we comply with our legal and ethical obligations. All Executive team members are responsible for ensuring their teams understand and comply with the requirements and know how to raise areas of concern. We are committed to acting ethically and with integrity in all our business relationships and to implementing and enforcing effective systems and controls to ensure slavery and human trafficking is not taking place anywhere in our business or supply chains.

As part of our commitment to combating modern slavery, GBG has in place a number of internal policies on matters such as Anti-Bribery & Corruption and Whistleblowing which are readily available to all team members via GBG's internal intranet.

As part of GBG's whistleblowing processes, we encourage team members to raise any concerns and provide clear reporting lines. We have an external whistleblowing hotline which allows team members to report in confidence wherever in the world they are located and monthly reports are provided to Company Secretary, who directly reports to the Chair of the Audit & Risk Committee on such matters. No concerns have been raised in the last 10 years.

TRAINING

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains and our business, we circulate and share our Modern Slavery statement with team members annually. In addition all new starters are required to review and confirm their understanding of our Modern Slavery statement as part of their online induction process.

LOOKING AHEAD TO THE FUTURE

We recognise that the fight against modern slavery is not static. Therefore, to improve our mitigation and to ensure we can demonstrate our continued commitment to eradicating slavery and human trafficking from our supply chains we will continue to take the following steps:

- Improve team member awareness on modern slavery through updated training.
- The creation of a new procurement strategy for GBG, that will introduce enhanced processes to better control who we spend our money with and the due diligence required prior to placing orders.
- Ensure suppliers support GBG's principals as set out in its Modern Slavery statement and that they comply with applicable legislation and regulatory requirements.
- As part of the onboarding process of new suppliers, our standard Terms and Condition include strong obligations regarding compliance with Modern Slavery legislation.

- Instances of non-compliance are assessed on a case-by-case basis and any remedial actions are tailored appropriately.
- Work with the Slave Free Alliance <https://www.slavefreealliance.org>, to identify areas for improvement within our own supply chain and work towards a slave free supply chain.
